

Summer Guidelines for AP Human Geography

There is no assigned book for summer reading; however, keep up with the international, national and local news. Read the newspaper, watch television programs such as Frontline, BBC news, Nightline, read magazines, Newsweek to The Economist. Become knowledgeable about our world. Human Geography deals with themes such as population/migration, agricultural/industrial changes, urbanization and relations between nation-states. All have a local as well as a global connection. In August, your first grade is a map quiz created from news events over the summer. We will read Fast Food Nation by Eric Schlosser as well as one other book during the school year.
